

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A vacation trailer having, in addition to conventional features: an upward-opening rear door to roof over a sheltered area behind the trailer when parked; means for causing the trailer to kneel in a manner lowering the bumper-bearing end of the chassis of the trailer; a specially designed removable drawer-like carrier on casters which fits into the interior of the trailer and is useful for unloading a quantity of outdoor portable items all at once from the trailer; and a detachable bumper containing a cavity for storage of folded or rolled fabric and/or screening material useful for walling-in the sheltered area under the opened rear door. Mutual cooperation among the special elements procures convenient unloading of the portables and convenient erection of the door-roofed sheltered area.